

This is a sequence diagram that I created myself off of some code that is in my 262 class. Basically there is a menu that the player can control to draw lines and also to change direction using a compass. He can move in any direction as well. Above are the classes for that code.